APPROPRIATION OF MONEY FOR DIXON BRIDGE DELAYED

Omission of Twelve Words in the Motion Pre-vents Vote

BULLETIN
Chicago, Sept. 14—(AP)—Billy Ranieri, 10 years old, kidnapped a week ago on his way home from school and held for $60,000 ransom, still was being sought today by the police and his parents, working independently, following a false report that the boy had been found unconscious on a west side street.

The report that the boy had been picked up at a crowded street intersection and taken to a juvenile home caused relatives to rush there only to find that the report probably had started as a result of the finding of a boy six years old last Monday and his removal to the home.

A. Frank Ranieri, father of the missing boy, who has begged the police to stay out of the search because he fears their activities may cause the abductors to kill the lad, returned to his home today after being away all morning. He refused to discuss the object of his trip. John Stege, Deputy Commissioner of Police, went to his home to question the father in an effort to obtain information which would help the police apprehend the kidnappers.

The omission of a clause in the resolution granting county aid to the city of Dixon for the construction of a bridge across Rock river at Peoria avenue, delayed final action being taken by the county board of supervisors, when the matter came to the attention of the board this morning.

The resolution which was tabled at the June meeting, the road and bridge committee sought to have the sum of $105,000 appropriated as the county's share of the expense, but failed to include in the language of the resolution the legally required words, "now in the hands of the county treasurer and not otherwise appropriated."

With hopes of winding up the business to come before the September session of the board today, the bridge matter did not come to the attention of the board until shortly before noon today. The resolution presented last June was read to the board, and the technical omission discovered. An attempt was being made to close up the bridge matter before the noon adjournment, by tabling the June resolution indefinitely, and referring the city's petition for county aid back to the road and bridge committee to bring in another resolution almost identical, but containing the language omitted in the original resolution. Some discussion developed, and when it was apparent that some time might be required to right the action, two of the supervisors attempted to put over a motion for an adjournment until 2 o'clock this afternoon. In the vote, the motions for adjournment were declared lost by Chairman Carl Straw.

Prepare New Motion.
Supervisors Spencer, Clayton, Finch and Knecht, who were endeavoring to right the wrong, continued and when the chairman rapped for order, the action was quickly carried to its desired point. The resolution presented to the board at the June meeting was tabled indefinitely and the petition of the city of Dixon for county aid in the construction of the Peoria avenue bridge was referred back to the road and bridge committee.

Supervisor Finch informed the board that the road and bridge committee had prepared another resolution, embodying the words omitted in the original, and this was to be presented when the board reconvened this afternoon. There was no apparent opposition against voting the $105,000, which represents the county's share of the improvement.

Supervisor Thomas Clayton of the finance committee informed the board that there was a balance of approximately $150,000 in the county treasury which is not included in appropriations, from which the amount for the bridge can be secured.

The board reconvened at 11 o'clock this morning and appointed Alaf V. Rees of this city, accountant, to conduct the annual audit of the various county officers.

The county home committee reported that the new vitrified tile sile at the county home had been completed and that work on the construction of a feed shed would be completed within a few days. The contract price was given at $1,575.

At yesterday afternoon's session two reports of the purchasing committee were read to the board. The first empowered the county home committee to purchase two cars of Kentucky coal for use at the institution this winter. The second report recommended the purchase of three new typewriters for the office of the county clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Londot of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Lockford of Kansas City motored to Rockford Thursday afternoon. They were joined in the evening by Mrs. Beas Pinney and Curtiss Gleason.

Suggestions in Connection With New School Heard

Many citizens are daily watching very closely the progress being made on the construction of Dixon's new high school structure on the north side of the river and many are the suggestions that are heard daily on every hand. Some of these are well worth consideration, and probably one of the most attractive was made this week by Dr. A. H. Burr during his visit with Dixon friends.

Dr. Burr has suggested that the school be known as the Lincoln memorial high school, due to the fact that its location is but a short distance from the old block house where the martyred president was active as a soldier.

Another suggestion which has been brought to the attention of the city council for consideration, is the clearing of the islands in Rock River between the two bridges. With a new high school and a new bridge, both of these fine improvements would be at least greatly concealed from the view of the tourists and citizens as well because of the heavy foliage on the small islands. It has been suggested that the trees and dense undergrowth on the islands be removed during the winter, and the islands given some attention during the year by keeping them clear of brush and trees that the two notable improvements of Dixon's civic life may be enjoyed by those who pass over the Galena avenue bridge and from the south side of the river.

Arsenal of PawPaw Man Burglarized

A collector of revolvers and fire-arms residing in Paw Paw recently saw his valuable array of pistols of which he was very proud, dwindle in a day, and many of the finest and most valued guns of his collection were missing. City officials were notified of the loss and an investigation was launched which resulted in the rounding up of a number of the boys about town. Confessions were made which led the city officers to the fathoming out of the theft.

It developed that a number of boys knowing of the presence of the collection in the collector's home, essayed to arm themselves, and during the collector's absence, walked into his home and selected the weapons of their choosing. Later when an investigation was started following the report of the robbery, guns were found in weed patches, piles of rubbish and along the railroad tracks and the collector, realizing the seriousness of their action, assisted in locating the hidden arms. All but one of the guns were recovered and it is expected that this will be returned to the collector within a few days. The matter was called to the attention of the county officers to locate the last gun.

Clear Right of Way for Highway No. 89

The disputed right of way for state highway Route 89 through Marion township, was cleared this morning, and it was announced that grading would be started very soon on the seven and one-half mile stretch, one mile west of Walton and continuing south across the Green River bottoms. The state department of highways, the county road and bridge committee, Marion township officials and the firm of Dixon, Devine, Bracken & Dixon conferred and a settlement was agreed upon for the right of way through the Dwyer farm in Marion township.

In the condemnation proceedings in the county court several weeks ago a jury assessed damages against the estate at $4,043.35 in favor of the Julia Dwyer estate for the right of way for the route 89 paving. This sum is to be paid by Marion township to assure the right of way for much heavy grading across the Green River bottoms. The contract for the grading was awarded to the J. J. McCaughey Company of Chicago, who will start soon and it is expected that the work will be completed this fall.

KIDNAPED CHILD THOUGHT FOUND: WAS UNCONSCIOUS

Young Chicago Boy is Found on West Side of City Today

Chicago, Sept. 14—(AP)—An unconscious boy, believed to be Billy Ranieri, ten-year-old Italian child, who has been in the hands of kidnappers for a week, was picked up at a busy street intersection on the west side this afternoon. He was carried into the juvenile home nearby for examination.

Hopes of having his kidnapped son home before morning were told to the police last night by the boy's father, Frank Ranieri, prosperous sewer contractor from whom ransom of $60,000 had been demanded.

Ranieri feared to tell the police more. For a week Billy Ranieri, 10 years old, has been in the hands of Sicilian extortionists and the father dared not notify the police, who learned of abduction late Wednesday night.

Yesterday the father kept to himself—saying he did not want the police to know where he was going. All day he was absent from his home. He was putting his trust in personal negotiations with Sicilians who might act as go-betweens.

Children Pray for Return
The children of St. Genevieve's parochial school, Montana street and Lamont avenue, had offered special prayers for the safe return of their missing schoolmate. The terror had swept through the district and other Italian parents worried for the safety of their little ones and were there to escort them home.

Crowds gathered around the Ranieri home during the day, some offering sympathy to the family. All sorts of rumors were being passed about. The kidnappers had threatened to cut off an ear, a toe, a finger, if the $60,000 ransom was not paid immediately, the excited Italians were saying. The boy surely would be killed because the father couldn't get the $60,000 necessary to save his boy's life, declared others who claimed to know the family's circumstances.

Say Father Paid $1,000
Three small girls said Alice Ranieri, 12 year old sister of the Mafia kidnappers' victim, had told them her father had already paid $1,000 to the extortionists. She also said her father had a hysterical telephone conversation with some one in Tennessee and the toll charges were $3.

Capt. James E. Doherty of the Cragan station called at the house. "We will pay anything as long as I get my child back," the tearful mother told him. "When they called me I said, 'Take the house; take anything we have, but don't hurt my boy.'"

Boy Is Ill, Mother Says
"She said the little boy is sick," Capt. Doherty said, "and is undernourished and has been taking medicine constantly for some time. She is frantic at the thought that her boy might die because he hasn't his medicine, and she pleaded with me to do something right away."

Squads from the detective bureau visited Melrose Park's Italian section during the day and questioned many persons. They thought it possible the boy was being hidden there, and they asked Chief Rocco Pasarelli to aid them in the search.

The Melrose Park chief organized a searching party, which went through the entire village, but to no avail. The chief said he was certain that if any of the residents knew of the ransom lair they would inform him.

Father Uses Own Tactics
The father did not go to Melrose Park, Chief Pasarelli said. Wherever he did go, it was known he was seeking avenues of communication through his own people rather than through the police. He had dreaded police activity and publicity for his boy's sake because of the Sicilian code. Wherever he spent the day, he refused to tell when he arrived home in the evening. Capt. Doherty was waiting for him and asked him for a picture of the boy to put in the police bulletin.

"I'll give you a picture if the boy isn't home at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning," the father said. "If anybody says I paid it's a lie, and I'm not going to pay."

"He laughed and shrugged his shoulders and seemed cheerful enough," the captain said. "I think he has made some kind of an arrangement with the kidnappers."

SUIT FOR $39,000,000 IS FILED AGAINST ESTATES OF J. J. ASTOR AND HEIRS

Based on Trust Paper of Former Partner Written in 1815

New York, Sept. 14—(AP)—Argument was heard today on a motion to dismiss a suit for $39,000,000 against the trustees of the estates of John Jacob Astor, founder of the Astor fortune, and his heirs, brought by descendants of relatives of a partner of the elder Astor's.

The suit was filed last May after Ebnah Carnahan of Philadelphia, a descendant of a brother of John Nicholas Emmerick, the one time Astor partner, found a trust paper in an old leather case that had belonged to Emmerick.

The paper, dated in 1815, the year before Emmerick died, named John Jacob Astor trustee and directed him to disburse the trust fund in the partnership, then valued at more than $1,000,000 to be divided in 90 years, which would be 1905, among Emmerick's "descendants and heirs."

Even B. Lewis, of Philadelphia, counsel for the plaintiffs (Edna Carnahan, Christine Campbell and John Thomas Emmerick) charged that the clients had been deprived of their rights under the old trust paper by "concealment and fraud" on the part of the Astors. He said no attempt to locate the Emmerick heirs had been made by the elder Astor of his partner's estate during the 32 years he lived after Emmerick's death.

The dismissal motion was brought by the Farmers Loan & Trust Company, trustee of John Jacob Astor, and by William Vincent Astor, legal trustee of John Jacob Astor, Junior. The argument the claim had been outlawed by the statute of limitations, the there was nothing to show that John Jacob Astor ever knew of the trust paper's existence, and that as Emmerick died a bachelor the claimants cannot rightfully call themselves his "descendants."

Judge Thatcher allowed the Astor representatives three weeks in which to file briefs on their motion for dismissal, and gave the claimants two weeks beyond that in which to file an answer.

The court overruled an application by the plaintiffs to take depositions of persons in Council Bluffs, Iowa, and Kansas City, on the ground that the application did not state that the prospective witnesses were aged or infirm and unable to appear in person.

Two Union Labor Bodies Endorsed Louis Emmerson

Chicago, Sept. 14—(AP)—Two labor organizations have endorsed Louis L. Emmerson, Republican nominee for Governor, the state central committee announced today.

The Order of Railway Conductors of Illinois adopted a resolution saying "We exonerate Louis L. Emmerson from the various unfair charges made against him as respects the interests of organized labor and unreservedly commend him to the favorable consideration of the members of this organization."

A resolution adopted by the Murphysboro Local, No. 160, International Hod Carriers & Common Laborers of America, said in part, "Knowing that Louis L. Emmerson of Mt. Vernon is a builder, therefore an employer of common labor; that in the past he has been exceedingly friendly to the organized building crafts, by unanimous vote this local heartily endorses his candidacy for Governor of Illinois."

Goebel was the sole pilot to reach Mines Field, landing here at 3:20 p. m. Pacific Standard time, amid a great outburst of applause from the crowd.

JONES CONTINUES SENSATIONAL PLAY IN GOLF TOURNEY

Overwhelms Young Finlay in First Nine Holes of Match

Brae Burn Country Club, Newton, Mass., Sept. 14—(AP)—Bobby Jones, National Amateur golf champion, entered the final round of the national championship by defeating Phillips Finlay, Harvard sophomore, 13 p. m. today here today in their 36 hole semi-final.

Brae Burn Country Club, Newton, Mass., Sept. 14—(AP)—Bobby Jones, continuing his triumphant march in defense of the National Amateur golf championship, overwhelmed Phillips Finlay, Harvard sophomore and stood 9 up at the end of the first 18 holes of their semi-final match today.

In the other semi-final Phil Perkins, British titleholder, was 1 up on George Voigt of New York after a sensational battle to the half way mark.

Jones playing his second round in as many days in 70, two under par, smothered the youthful Finlay after a few preliminaries. The champion was five up at the turn and nearly doubled his margin on the way home.

Bobby's spectacular putting featured his par-demolishing game. He was not steady to the green, exploring the rough on many holes, but once on the carpet he made his famous "Calamity Jane" do his bidding. In addition to making the six foot-er look easy, he was getting them in from distance up to 20 feet. He had five one putt greens.

Finlay was hitting 'em a mile but as wild as a hawk. The youngster won only two holes, the second and fourth, with a birdie four but he saved himself a half on the 17th with a 39 foot putt.

Voigt Made Spectacular
Voigt made a spectacular fight on the homeward nine holes, almost overtaking Perkins after the British champion had gained a margin of four up at the fifth hole, yielded half of it an dthen again led by four up at the twelfth hole, where he got a home a curling 40 foot putt for a birdie two.

This sensational shot, instead of discouraging Voigt, spurred him in. He won the next two holes with birdies four, sinking a 25 foot putt on the 14th green, gained another hole at the 16th, where Perkins took 3 putts, and nearly squared the match at the 17th. There, Voigt was dead for his 3, only to have Perkins emerge with a great shot from the rough to save a half.

Perkins, putter, like that of Jones was his main weapon. The Briton sank them anywhere from five to forty feet. He had five one-putt greens and on two others rimmed the cup with long ones.

COW TURNS ON OWNER

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 14—(AP)—O. R. Anderson, a farmer residing at Cameron, near here, was probably fatally injured Thursday when he was gored by a cow. He tried to force her to go with the herd to another pasture when the animal turned on him. The animal knocked him down and gored him. He fought with a knife but was badly mangled before members of his family came to his rescue.

WEATHER BEATS NON-STOP RACE: STORM ALL WAY

The Racers Encounter Bad Storms Entire Route Across Nation

Result of Vote of Miners Waits Count

Mines Fields, Los Angeles, Sept. 14—(AP)—The elements today stood victor in the non-stop transcontinental feature event of the National Air Race meet in progress here, and $22,500 posted for the first four finishers in the event remained with race officials.

None of the nine planes which hopped from Roosevelt Field New York Wednesday reached their goal without a stop, though for a time yesterday it was thought Art Goebel, holder of the west-to-east non-stop record, had won first prize.

Goebel was the sole pilot to reach Mines Field, landing here at 3:20 p. m. Pacific Standard time, amid a great outburst of applause from the crowd.

Following the outburst, however, and confusion attendant with his rather dumpy landing, Goebel revealed he had been disqualified by a landing at Prescott, Ariz., earlier in the day, when he grounded to adjust a faulty carburetor and to take on additional gasoline.

Told of Battle.
He brought a story of a bitter battle over the Rocky Mountains, during which his White Lockheed-Vega monoplane met fierce headwinds, rain and sleetstorms. The craft, "The Yankee Doodle" bore evidence of the violence of the storm, one cabin door being torn away.

Goebel landed 23 hours and 50 minutes after his takeoff in New York, which time, despite the hour and ten minutes he was on the ground in Arizona was three hours better than the east-to-west non-stop record of 26 hours, 50 minutes, 38 2-5 seconds set by Lieutenants Oakley G. Kelley and John A. MacReady in 1923.

He was the favorite of the long derby because of that performance of his "Yankee Doodle," and was expected to have serious opposition only from Col. William Thaw's Lockheed-Vega and Nick Maner's Buhl-Sesqui planes, both forced down earlier.

Captain George Haldeman, Ruth Elder's pilot on her attempted trans-Atlantic flight, was the last plane down in the derby, coming to earth at 5:05 p. m. Mountain Time, yesterday at Albuquerque, N. M. on account of gasoline shortage following a long fight with head winds.

But One Accident.
A single accident marred the race when John P. Morris, pilot and Col. William Thaw, II, navigator, both of Pittsburgh, crashed into a fence after a broken oil line had forced their Lockheed-Vega plane down at Decatur, Ind., yesterday morning. Both men were seriously hurt.

Pilot Mamer, in his Orange Buhl-Sesqui plane, was the only one of the contestants to choose the northern route, and ran into ugly weather over Wyoming that brought him down after he had assumed a strategic lead in the flight.

A leaky valve on an emergency gas tank forced Lt. Jack Esemann of the Rockaway Naval air station, flying Charles A. Levine's Trans-Atlantic Bellanca plane "The Columbia" to descend at Amarillo, Texas. Although he had considerable gasoline in his tank, he stated he did not think there was enough to finish the race.

Emil "Hard Luck" Burgin of Mineola, N. Y., who has earned his nickname by winning against similar odds as those encountered in this race, had the same kind of misfortune as Haldeman and landed his Bellanca in a cornfield at Willard, N. M.

That is the story in brief of the six foremost contenders. The other three were put out shortly after the start.

About 9,000 persons were on the field when Goebel landed his plane, the Yankee Doodle. Goebel and his passenger, Harry Tucker of Santa Monica, the plane's owner, made their way to a hut at the side of the field and told how they had narrowly averted accident on the long hop.

"Several times during the night I thought we were gone," Tucker said. "There goes everything," Goebel started off. "That's what I said to Harry when I had to set the Yankee Doodle down in that desert at Prescott."

"Just half an hour more gas and I'd have won."

"But those are the breaks you get sometimes from the weather up there. Storm? Say the river was just one whole storm. Why, I never had a chance to look at a map from the time I took off until I hit Wichita."

FEAR FOR FLIER

Decatur, Ind., Sept. 14—(AP)—Considerable anxiety was felt today for the condition of Colonel William Thaw of Pittsburgh, Co-pilot of one of the planes in the transcontinental

He poured a number of milkcans full of water into the small hole in which he saw fire and then proceeded to fill the hole with wet straw. Both cars were somewhat damaged but none of the occupants was seriously injured.

Marriner Looks Good

Chicago, Sept. 14—(AP)—Les Marriner, whose brief but meteoric professional heavyweight career was halted by the cagey Eugene Wiggins of Indianapolis recently, has come back with more flash, more dash and a stiffer punch than ever.

Improved in every department of the game by his short rest, Marriner pounded Jack McAuliffe of Detroit, veteran of many ring campaigns, to the canvas with a withering barrage of lefts and rights last night, winning by a knockout in the sixth round.

Marriner, who learned his boxing at the University of Illinois, swarmed all over McAuliffe and wore the Detroit fighter down almost as he willed until he unleashed an attack that couldn't be stopped.

Last night's victory was the eighteenth in nineteen starts for Marriner, and his seventeenth knockout.

THE TEST OF A CLASSIC—

A classic is simply a work of such intense vitality that it is always modern. This is its one test, its only test.

It owes nothing in advantage to the fact that it was made long ago. Its antiquity merely sets silly people seeing it in a wrong light.

Historical associations that may have grown up round it—considerations of the works that grew out of it, or the works that it derives from—are pure irrelevances.

Sentimental associations degrade it. A button, a menu-card, a handkerchief, a second-rate work of art will satisfy the "sense of period" in anyone who has the sense developed. To use a first-rate work of art for such a purpose is to waste it. Moreover, the first-rate work of art is not even good enough for the purpose. Its chief point as a first-rate work of art is that it rises utterly clear of its period.

The classic of art owes its position to one thing and to one thing only: that in the absolute quality of its achievement it is supreme and has never been surpassed. All other considerations—date, time, place, conditions of production, historical significance—have no bearing on it whatsoever—Hubert Griffith, in "Iconoclasm, or the Future of Shakespeare."

MENU for the FAMILY

BY SISTER MARY
BREAKFAST— Cantaloupe, cereal, cooked with figs, coddled eggs, toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON— Corn fritters, cauliflower salad, stuffed peaches, milk, tea.

DINNER— Jellied bouillon, lima bean puff, tomatoes stuffed with rice and cheese, cress and apple salad, chilled watermelon, milk, coffee.

Thin slices of crisp raw cauliflower are delicious served in combination with sliced tomatoes, minced green pepper and crisp lettuce. A French dressing mayonnaise or a well seasoned cooked salad dressing can be used.

Stuffed Peaches

Four fine peaches, 4 rounds of cake 1-2 cup orange marmalade or any kind of jam, about 2-3 cup chopped pecan or English walnut meats, 1-2 cup whipping cream, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla.

Choose perfectly ripe peaches, chill, peel and cut in halves to remove stones. Combine marmalade or jam and nuts and fill cavities of peaches with mixture. Press firmly together and put each peach on a round of cake. Whip cream until firm, add sugar and vanilla and garnish peaches with whipped cream.

This is a good concoction to keep in mind for winter use also, since canned peaches can be drained from their syrup and used in place of fresh ones.

The WOMAN'S DAY

I had Sunday night supper with the Blanks last night, topping a ride with the Smiths in the afternoon, and one aspect of the two occasions has rather haunted me ever since.

Each family contains an old lady, and it's the contrast of the two that impressed me, bringing home the fact that there are as many types of old age as there are types of youth.

Mrs. Blank, aged 72, is very decidedly mistress of her own home. Two unmarried daughters and a son live with her, and that's exactly what it is—she does not "live with them." She manages her home absolutely by herself, and it's only of late years that she very reluctantly consented to yielding a part of the actual work to a woman who comes in three times a week to clean, prepare dinner, and so on.

Sundays, however, the girls put mother in her chair by the porch and insist that since housework is a change for them it's their day to do it while she takes her holiday.

But the vitality and vivaciousness of Mrs. Blank is called upon a dozen times. It was Mother Blank who opened a tight pickle jar when no one else could budge it.

If a stubborn window needs opening, Mrs. Blank opens it. If a key won't unlock a door, Mother Blank is called upon. But her vitality is not a physical vitality only. She has will to be necessary and stay in the thick of things till death do her take.

Mrs. Smith of the other family is the very same age as Mrs. Blank, but she long ago stopped mistressing a home. Her son's wife runs the establishment—that is, she does all the actual work but remains in the position of a menial in the house, for Mrs. Smith insists on the title as head of the home.

Her health is exactly as good as Mrs. Blank's, but she just accepts without investigation the tradition that any person over 70 has a perfect right to be nervous, ailing, and waited upon.

The ride into rolling hills and green wooded valleys could have been a delight without her. But she fussed and worried so much about the roads and the hills and the street car tracks that would have to be crossed if we took such and such a road, that there was no pleasure in it for anyone.

Two old ladies—which kind are we going to be? It's partly, of course, a matter of inherent characteristics. But it's more largely a case of how one chooses to grow old.

Entertained for Miss Lucille Frye

Tuesday evening Miss Margaret Knick entertained the members of her bridge club with a theater party, witnessing "Sixty Miles an Hour," at the Dixon theater. Miss Knick entertained in honor of Miss Lucille Frye, whose engagement to Allen Harnish of Oregon, has been announced. Miss Dorothy Palmer was awarded the favor for first honors at bridge and Miss Margaret Knick was consoled.

All in attendance at the party joined in presenting Miss Lucille Frye with a pretty guest favor.

Bridge Made Easy

(Abbreviations: A—ace; K—king; Q—queen; J—jack; X—any card lower than 10.)

READING CARDS—4

Cards may be read from the fall of certain other cards in the suit which is led. When west, the leader, opens a suit, east should try to signal definite information about his holding.

The leader's partner should either encourage him to continue the suit or discourage him from doing so.

When the 7 or a higher card is played by the leader's partner, it is a signal to lead that suit again—an encouraging card.

Assume that your partner's opening lead is the spade King. You hold spades, Q 9 7 3.

Interpreting the lead, you know that your partner also holds the spade Ace and other in that suit. You should play the spade 7 which will inform your partner of the fact that you hold strength in that suit and want it continued.

Assume now that you hold spades, 7 5 3 and your partner leads the spade King.

You want to inform your partner of the fact that you do not hold strength in that suit and you should therefore play the spade 3. This is known as a discouraging card and is a signal to your partner that you cannot help him in that suit. (Copyright, 1928, by the Ready Reference Publishing Co.)

Women Can and Must Elect Hoover Says Mrs. McCormick

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 14.—Women of the country know Herbert Hoover better than do the men of the nation because of his war work and it is their duty this year "to sell" Herbert Hoover's personality to voters. Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick said Thursday in an address to Republican women at the Congress Hotel.

"Never in the history of politics have women been given the opportunity and the place in the party that they have this year," she said. "It has been an uphill pull for fifteen years. We who have blazed the trail feel that this year woman has at last been granted the place of importance in national and state organizations that she asked. Now the blood of defeat will be on our heads if we do not win this election."

"The Hoover volunteers will work for the national campaign, but the local campaign workers must realize that it is her duty to work for the election of Herbert Hoover, while she is working for her local candidate. In Illinois Mr. Hoover has an asset in Mr. Louis E. Emmerson, candidate for governor. He is the biggest vote getter in Illinois."

"We are carrying Mr. Hoover with the state ticket into every county. It is up to the women of Chicago to see that Cook County votes for Mr. Hoover. Mr. Hoover is not as well known in Illinois as in other states, for out of courtesy to Governor Lowden, he did not enter this state during the pre-convention campaign. Women all know Mr. Hoover, however, from his war work and his child welfare work. It is therefore their duty to wage an intensive campaign for him. The most effective work women can do in the campaign is to make an intensive study of Mr. Hoover's life and then tell it everywhere."

"Mr. Hoover's acceptance speech should be read many times. Each reading will reveal some new fine quality of the Presidential candidate. One paragraph, in which he said 'America is not a nation of machines, not a nation of statistics, but a nation of homes' alone should reveal him a man whom woman can choose as the ideal man for the Presidency. The man who can see America in such simple real terms is the right sort of human being for the Presidency."

POINTERS FOR PARENTS

THE MODEL CHILD

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Parents want their children to do them credit. They want to be proud of their manners, their speech, their school reports, their perfect obedience. One may question whether this passion for perfection does not more often serve parental pride than the best interests of the child.

The irreproachable behavior we are in the habit of commending is not necessarily an indication that all is well in the child's soul.

Are the polite manners grounded in genuine consideration of the rights of others? Has correct speech been attained at the cost of hampering the child's own graphic or less refined expression? Is the good school report a byproduct of real interest and an awakened intellect or has he learned his lessons under the pressure of anxiety and the threat of disapproval? Is the obedience so much admired by visitors the result of the fear of punishment or is it a sign of the growth of self control and a sense of social responsibility?

These are questions which the mothers of model children might well ask themselves. The parent who achieves outward conformity in her child must be sure that this pleasant state of affairs is really a sign of his inner growth.

The child who has been coerced into compliance either has had his spirit broken or has learned to hide a sullen and rebellious heart beneath his pretty manners. The spirit crushed in childhood will be sorely needed later on when he tries to establish himself in a competitive world. The sullen and rebellious heart will find ugly manifestations in the selfish and irritable adult.

Parents would be wiser to swallow their pride and accept imperfect performance in their children. The child who makes real effort in the right direction and has his heart in the right place is laying the soundest foundation for good character.

OTHER AMERICANS.

A Canadian paper repeats the old protest against applying the word "American" exclusively to citizens of the United States. It points out, with justice, that citizens of Canada, Brazil or Chile can just as logically apply the word to themselves.

Many attempts have been made to find a word for the United States, and all have fizzled. During the war the British solved the difficulty by calling all United States troops "Yanks"—although they probably didn't imagine how that would sound to soldiers from Alabama or Texas. Someone once suggested "Usans"; but that is hybrid that doubtless will never gain favor.

We'll probably go on saying "Americans"; but we might remember that our neighbors to the north and south can use the name as well as we can. Why can't some of the bright young men who coin advertising names and slogans do something about it? Surely, it ought to be possible to find a word that would strike public fancy and avoid wounding the pride of other American nations.

THE MARCH OF ARMIES—AND TIME.

The Department of the Interior has just revealed that there remain fewer than 80,000 Civil War soldier pensioners. The veterans of Lincoln's armies are dying at the rate of 1200 a month; within 25 years the last centenarian among them will be gone.

The men who still survive have seen great changes. They have seen their sons and grandsons march away to new wars, fighting shoulder to shoulder with the sons and grandsons of the Confederate veterans. They have seen the wounds of the Civil War healed, the union more firmly cemented than ever before. They have seen their country reach new power and new prosperity.

What will the country be like when the veterans of the World War have reached the stage the Civil War veterans now hold? Will they, too, have seen new wars? Will they, too, have witnessed a great growth in internal harmony and well being? It is a fascinating speculation.

MARRYING THE BARON.

A German newspaper the other day printed a questionnaire for its feminine readers, asking them if they would (provided they had the chance) marry the transatlantic aviator, Baron von Huenefeld. And two-thirds of them replied that they would not.

This is interesting, for two reasons. First of all, it is rather surprising to know that the Baron, with his engaging smile and his monocle, should not be considered a matrimonial bargain. And, secondly, it is surprising to learn that the newspapers in Berlin are so like the newspapers in the United States. We had supposed that this questionnaire idea was a home-grown product. Apparently it isn't. A newspaper is a newspaper, wherever you find it.

Commander Byrd is taking a ukulele player with him to the South Pole. Well, that's one less, anyhow.

Now that the ladies have abandoned the diet idea and taken to eating again, it's harder to fill a date than it used to be.

It's often cheaper to move than pay parking fines.

Bare-legged schoolgirls seem to provide the issue this year. Wise school principals aren't making any statements until the first frost.

Women won't be real smokers, of course, until they start loafing in the cigar stores.

America is a country where little children are in great danger of growing up in the belief that Justice has that bandage around her eyes because she's about to choose her favorite brand of cigars.

Mosquitoes used to be able to bite only the ankles, and hands and face. No wonder they've been getting so husky this year.

Medical students at Johns Hopkins are taught cooking during their final year. Well, isn't a doctor's wife entitled to good meals, too?

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

Before the arch the Tynmites stood. "This wondrous place looks mighty good," said Scouty, "but the gates are closed. The walls too high to climb. I'd like to get inside, of course, but we must find some other source. To try and tunnel underneath, we'd have an awful time."

Just then wee Copy looked around behind the bunch and shortly found that they had lost the lion that had brought them to this place. He shouted, "Where's he gone? Who knows?" And Scouty answered, "There he goes. I guess he's tired of carrying us around. Just see him race."

The lion soon was out of sight, and shortly Carpy Tynmite said, "I know how we'll get in here. Come on, don't hesitate. The rest of you just follow me, 'cause I'm as brave as I can be. I'm not afraid of anyone. I'll just rap on the gate."

So, at the gate of Animal Land, the others watched brave Carpy stand and knock real hard. "Just wait," said he, "someone will answer us. And, when they do, please all think twice, and do not blunder. Just be nice. If we behave like bad boys we will likely start a fuss."

The gate then shook, and moved a bit, and Scouty cried, "they're opening it! Now all stand back and kindly wait until our way is clear. By this time it was open wide. A funny, pudgy man inside smiled broadly at the Tynmites and said, "Well, look who's here!"

"Hello there, Mister", Clowny cried. "I wonder—can we come inside?" "You bet you can", the man exclaimed. He then grabbed Scouty's hand, and soon shook hands with all the bunch. And then he said, "I have a hunch that you'll be glad you know me. I'm the King of Animal Land."

Borah Refuses to Address Methodists

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 13.—(AP)—Speaking as a representative of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, the Rev. J. E. Skillington of Altoona, Pa., last night made a plea that "the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith be denounced from every pulpit of the Methodist church in America," in an address before the Central and Illinois Conference of the church.

The Rev. Mr. Skillington said that "Smith's political practices, for the past twenty-five years cause us to oppose him."

"He is the product of the Tammany machine, and Tammany is a byword in the nation and a symbol of predatory politics," the speaker said.

"Gov. Smith has praised Tammany highly and when in the legislature himself, was the friend of the saloon."

In an address early in the conference before the conference Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes had defended the church's activity against the Smith candidacy, saying that "the Methodist church was on record in favor of temperance 50 years before Governor Smith was born."

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho refused to make an address scheduled for tonight because of what he termed the "political aspect" of the church meeting.

I've Made An Amazing
Shaving Discovery

Test it FREE

I HAVE found the first real beard softener science has known. No brush is used. No lather is worked up in mug or on the face. Nothing now to rub in. You wet the face. Spread Kolax thinly over the beard. And shave. That is all. Shaving drudgery is ended.

Instantly, when Kolax touches the beard each hair swells one-fifth. Kolax actually penetrates the hair. The natural oil is neutralized. Even the hard, wiry hair of the heaviest and blackest beard is softened. The razor glides over the skin.

From 5 to 10 minutes are saved each time you shave. And the skin is improved instead of injured. For Kolax smooths the skin. It soothes and gives new life—new vitality. No lotions are needed. No hot towels or after treatment. Shave as closely as you choose without irritation.

So Kolax replaces all soap for shaving, whether cake, stick, powder or cream.

Make this Test Free

Kolax is now made in two forms. Except in one particular they are the same. One is Kolax as now used by thousands. The other is Kolax with menthol added. Some prefer it for the added pleasing tingle to the skin. I ask your help in deciding which is most delightful and refreshing. I invite you to test this new discovery in brushless shaving—quicker—infinite more pleasant. Mail the coupon below. Pershing Honored on 68th Birthday

Washington, Sept. 13.—(AP)—General John J. Pershing today celebrated the sixty-eighth milestone of a life rich in adventure and accomplishment, crowned by leadership of the battalions that fought in America's greatest war.

Now fully retired after a long and fruitful service in the Army, the man who, with Washington and a few others, rose to the high distinction of a full-ranked General, found on this birthday echoes of the acclaim which a grateful world bestows upon those it reveres.

At the War Department, where General Pershing has a handsome office although he is no longer actively connected with that branch of the government, time was set aside today so that the General might receive the four latest foreign decorations which admiring nations have conferred upon him.

Congress, which must consent before Americans may receive such decorations, acted favorably last winter, but Secretary Davis of the War Department postponed the presentation so that it might take place today.

The decorations were those conferred upon the General by the president of Czechoslovakia in 1926 and by the president of Peru, the president of Poland and the president of Venezuela in 1925.

CORSIKAN BANDIT LACKS
CHARM OF OLD MASTERS

Ajaccio, Corsica.—(AP)—Banditry is a lost art in Corsica. Perfettini, the latest of the robber chieftains, has been shot down by gendarmes and they were able to get him only because the Corsicans didn't like Perfettini's style of banditry.

They considered his method's too low-brow. He and his band robbed and killed in the ordinary manner. His acts were regarded as "crime" while the Corsican bandit, Romanetti, also killed by gendarmes two years ago, occasionally held for big ransom some unpopular person or killed in vendettas.

But he did things in a grand and picturesque manner that made him something of a popular hero.

Rhythm Teaches Dumb To Speak

Teaching the totally deaf and dumb to speak and even to sing as naturally as do people with normal senses is one of the things accomplished by modern scientific methods at the Illinois School for the Deaf, Jacksonville. Through the use of rhythm, the clumsy sign language is done away with and people once regarded as hopelessly incapable of speech know the thrill of normal expression.

A piano, a large bass drum and the human voice are used in these rhythm classes which constitute the first step in educating the deaf and dumb. The class includes the totally deaf and dumb and also those with some residuum of hearing and some ability to speak but with the defective, unintelligible voice once thought to be the inevitable accompaniment of faulty hearing.

The child stands by the piano or drum, placing his fingertips lightly on the instrument. Chords are played on the piano or simple rhythms beat on the drum. The vibrations are communicated to the child, awakening in him a sense of time and tone. Accented and unaccented chords convey to him an idea of the normal inflections of voice. High and low tones teach him to raise or lower his own voice, avoiding the monotone that usually characterizes the speech of the deaf.

After this preliminary lesson in pitch, the class works for absolute pitch. The deaf child's voice is placed on B flat below middle C as that is the natural speaking tone. Care is taken to secure forward production, control of the overtones and nasal resonance so that the voice will have a pleasant quality and good carrying power.

The piano and the drum are also used for giving correct accent and are supplemented in these lessons by physical exercises in which the entire body is made to express the rhythm of the music. In the few years since this system has been in operation, pupils at the Illinois school have made wonderful progress in learning to speak and the method has been hailed as a revolutionary one in the education of children handicapped by poor speech.

The operation of this rhythm method of teaching will be demonstrated at the Illinois Conference on Public Welfare at Quincy, September 24-28 where all phases of State welfare work as well as many private philanthropies will be represented by exhibits.

Recalls Curios of Illinois Railways

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 14—(AP)—Back in the days when the "depot clock" in Springfield was standard time for railroads, the railroad speed limit was five miles an hour through Springfield and Decatur and six miles an hour through other Illinois cities.

This and other curiosities of early railroad history in Illinois difficulties and successes of railroad establishment and operation and accounts of development of all lines which have had a part in Illinois history, are contained in a volume entitled "One Hundred Years of American Railroad," just completed by John W. Starr, Jr., author of "Lincoln and the Railroads."

Riots, drunkenness, "milk-sickness," murder, and the theft of box cars, were recurrent problems for pioneer railroad builders. Workmen rioted frequently at LaSalle, Peru and Cairo, and at Kankakee the Illinois Central was held up 24 hours "while the engineers and firemen were off on a drunken spree," a railroad report said.

Between Centralia and Cairo, Starr's books recalls the Illinois Central in Civil War time was "a thoroughfare for the armies going South and funeral trains coming North."

Operation of the first Pullman sleeping cars at Bloomington, Illinois, is described as an historic event that got little attention in Bloomington. The cars pulled out of the station with no crowd to watch. Beds were made up by brakemen. The first passengers, all of Bloomington, wanted to go to bed with their boots on, "they seemed afraid to take them off."

The first railroad in the Mississippi valley was operated in Illinois, May 8, 1838. It ran twelve miles from Meregosia to Morgan city in two hours. From that modest start, Illinois railroading has increased until today it is one of the state's greatest industries, adding its quota to the American railroad properties of which Starr says there are twenty-six billion dollars worth, 420,000 miles of track; 70,000 locomotives, 60,000 passenger cars and two and a half million freight cars in service.

Rep. Purnell in Hoover Column

Marion, Ill., Sept. 14—(AP)—Farm relief was declared "the outstanding issue of the campaign" by Congressman Fred S. Purnell of Indiana in an address here today at the Republican day rally of the Williamson county fair. He urged farmers to support Herbert Hoover as "the best qualified man to meet our agricultural problem."

"Mr. Hoover was right when he labeled farm relief the greatest economic problem in the country today," Congressman Purnell said. "It is solution is of vital importance to industry and labor as well as to those who till the soil. There can be no such thing as general permanent prosperity unless agriculture is prosperous; therefore it becomes a matter of national concern that the electorate of the country be not led astray by any false or unimportant issues."

"An attempt is being made to lead the Republican farmers of our state and nation into the Democratic party on account of the failure of the Mc-

Don't-Haugen bill. Such an effort would be fruitless, because it is not founded in reason or justice.

"It must be remembered we are dealing with the greatest problem the Congress or any administration has ever undertaken, and the solution cannot be found in a day. It is only through extensive hearings, long study and discussion that a problem of this magnitude can be solved."

"The McNary-Haugen bill may never become a law, but the time will come when its supporters will see their desire for agricultural equality into law and this stricken industry lifted to its rightful place among other industries."

"It is interesting to note that the Democratic party now enters the plea that it is no longer a free trade party and that it no longer thinks in 'pre-war' terms. The Democratic party has denounced the protective tariff as unconstitutional. They have insisted that tariff is a local question, and they have conceded that the Underwood-Simmons bill contained 'incidental protection.' It is equally important to remember that they also stand today exactly where they have always stood on every other important question affecting our country and its prosperity."

Grace Brinkley, ingenue of the Broadway revue stage, might be offered as one of the principal reasons why "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," but since that is such a controversial contention she dislikes to be placed in that role. Also, Grace insists that she prefers to keep to herself her own preferences in taste in things masculine—and she expects gentlemen to do likewise. Anyway, she's a real American beauty.

Watching the Big Scoreboard

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer) Echoes of 1908 are heard along the baseball stretch as major league teams thunder on toward what now looks like the greatest dual finish since the memorable season of Merkle's failure to touch second. Detroit won-Ban Johnson's pennant by half a game twenty years ago while the Cubs broke a tie in the standing with the Giants only by defeating the Clan McGraw, 4 to 2 in a playoff the day after the regular season closed.

Hard campaigning in the next two weeks may loosen the 1928 races, but for the moment, John Heydler's three contenders are more closely bunched than were the Giants, the Cubs and the Pirates at a corresponding stage of the 1908 struggle.
The American league today has only two teams in the running, against the four which battled twenty years ago, but the Yankees and the Athletics promise to make up in drama what they lack in numbers.

The National League situation became even more tense yesterday when Sheriff Fred Blake led the Cubs to a 6 to 1 triumph over the pace-setting Cardinals as the Giants swept a third straight double-header from under the nose of Rogers Hornsby at Boston. The Clan Mc-Graw's team took the opener, eased up behind Larry Benton's fine pitching, 12 to 2, and then fought to the finish for the second, 7 to 6.

This turn of events hauled the Giants up to within one and one-half games of the Cardinals, with the Cubs only half a game further down the list in third place. The American League situation remained un-

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SYBIL THORNE, Boston society girl, concludes a whirlwind romance by marrying on a shipboard in Havana Harbor, a man she has known just five days, RICHARD EUSTIS, dangerous and fascinating.

With HABEL BLAKE, a social worker, Sybil had left Boston for a trip to the tropics to try to reach a decision regarding CRAIG NEWELL, to whom she has been engaged for some months.
Newell is a young and wealthy bachelor, but Sybil years ago had fallen desperately in love with a soldier, JOHN LAWRENCE.

When Lawrence was reported missing in action Sybil took a solemn vow never to tell another man she loved him. After the death of her father, for whose sake she had promised to marry Newell, she questions the wisdom of her promise. Utterly miserable, she goes to Cuba for a rest and peace of mind.

Richard Eustis is aboard, and Sybil finds neither rest nor peace.
Eustis makes wild love to her, but not until the last night of the voyage does he propose. He tells her that he does not believe in marriage—that it is a lie—but he would do anything on earth for her.

In a mad moment Sybil consents. They are married. On their wedding night Eustis begins to show his true character. He gets intoxicated. Sybil is greatly hurt the next day, but finally gives in to his pleading, and, as she says, "puts him on probation."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIX

"SEND up some whisky and soda," Richard ordered the operator, "and shoot it right along, please."

When it came he poured himself a generous drink.

"God knows I need it," he muttered. And shortly he had another.

When Sybil came back he was nibbling nuts to hide his breath.

Mabel joined them in the afternoon. She had met a salesman from home, selling paper novelties, bon-bons and confetti and streamers.

"And those little do-dabs go across like wildfire," she explained.
"The Cubans are such fun-loving, childish people. Mr. Moore was telling me this morning about their noise-making contests. The garbage squad won the last one, with the ice cream vendors second,
the newboys third, and the carmen fourth. They wouldn't let the taxi drivers compete. Mr. Moore sells paper caps and horns and things by the truck load. He's awfully nice. He took me out to the cemetery this morning, to see the bone pile."

"What a romantic morning!"
Sybil giggled.

"Oh, but you don't know. It was quite thrilling. You see they dig up the graves every once in a while, when the survivors of the dead get behind on the rent. It's dreadfully gruesome. You don't buy grave lots in Havana like we do at home. You rent them. Then if you don't pay the rent, the dead tenants are dispossessed."

Richard laughed teasingly. "Ask your genial friend if he knows any more nice little trips," he suggested. "Perhaps he'll take you to the slaughter house when you get back to Boston, Mah."

"Oh, shut up!" she ordered, and continued excitedly. "We saw something else awfully interesting, too. There's an orphan asylum that was founded hundreds of years ago. On one side of the building there is a little sheltered alcove where a big basket swings."

"People who have babies they do not want slip into the alcove at night time, in the dark, and put their babies in the basket.
Then they pull a rope, and the basket goes up on a pulley where a Sister Charity sits and waits.
No one ever knows who the baby is, nor where it came from."

"Once Mr. Moore drove past the alcove very early in the morning, and he saw a girl with a bundle running down the street. She ran into the alcove, and he saw her undo the bundle. It was a little baby, of course. She kissed it, and kissed it, and he said she was crying like everything. Then she put it in the basket, and pulled the rope."

"Mr. Moore asked a policeman about it afterward. He wondered if a girl could get her baby back, if she wanted to. But the policeman said no. It seems that every mark of identification is destroyed, as soon as the Sister takes the baby.
And women who leave their children are never permitted to enter the building."

"Come on, you two, and have a little cocktail. The first today."

AND so the days passed—until Sybil had been away two weeks.
Mrs. Thorne, at the dinner table at home, was reading a letter the day's mail had brought. Five times she had perused it in solitude. But now Tad was home, and she must read it aloud. Valerie was there, too.

Cracking the sheets with anticipatory pleasure, she began, holding the paper close to her faded eyes, and glancing occasionally at the son of her heart:

"Havana is wonderful! Picturesque, hot, buggy, smelly, expensive. The women are beautiful.
Yesterday we went on a picnic, out in the country, where the children don't wear any clothes.
Today we had tea at a wonderful place where coffee is a dollar a cup.
We've won money at Jai Alai, and lost it at roulette. I've bought linens and perfume for everyone, and a shawl and a comb and earrings for Val."

"My goodness, Valerie!" Mrs.

Thorne beamed at her daughter-in-law. "Sybil's bringing you home all kinds of things."

"Well, Tad said for them, didn't he?"

"Val, you're a little crab." Tad pinched her cheek good-naturedly.

Mrs. Thorne looked worried. "It's strange," she said. "Craig hasn't had a line—just a cable, saying she would write later."

"Well, if there's a man in sight you know Sib has grabbed him," put in Valerie.

"Lay off Sib, will you Val?"

REFRACTION IN CHILDREN

By D. C. Bryant, M. D., Los Angeles, Calif., Member Gorgas Memorial.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. President Coolidge is the honorary president of the Gorgas Memorial, which has its headquarters at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

Very little has ever been written about refraction error in childhood and the later troubles that can be avoided by a little care.

Hyperopia, farsight, is the most common error found and unless it be of very high degree causes very little trouble to the patient until the use of the eyes for near work at school age is required. Astigmatism, both near and far-sighted, is the next common error and should always be corrected with glasses when found. Myopia, near-sight, the least common of all the errors of refraction, when of high degree should be corrected. Hyperopia is very common and, on account of the very good distant vision, except in cases of very high degree, is not discovered by the parents or the patients themselves until they are compelled to do much close work.

The child having far-sight or far-sighted astigmatism or both is compelled, early in life, to overuse his muscles of accommodation in bringing rays of light from the object looked at to a focus on the retina, thereby obtaining perfect vision.

In children with myopic, near-sighted eyes, either plain or combined with astigmatism, the refractive power of the eyes is greater than normal, hence there is not the same call for overuse of the muscles of accommodation as in the far-sighted eye and the child gets along much more comfortably with his studies and close work. If the error is of high degree, however, the child will be barred from all distant work of the blackboard, etc. This necessitates the use of correcting lenses strong enough to bring the distant vision to the normal or nearly so, a little below normal being safer and at the same time giving the child good vision for near distances.

Hyperopia, far-sight, unless of very low degree, should always be corrected before allowing the child to begin school work. The same can be said of astigmatism, whether it be of the near or far-sight variety, for here the irregular contraction of the muscle fibres, in order to bring out clear images of the object looked at, soon tires the eye-muscles, making it very difficult for the child to continue his studies. Wearing proper correcting lenses not only improves vision but also removes over-work from the eye-muscles, allowing them to grow stronger and stronger as the child grows older, thus making him more fit for his life's work.

It would be much safer if the eyes of all children were examined before they begin their school work.

ABE MARTIN

"Be home early, and don't you dare 't' set down in public," said Mrs. Joe Kite, last evening as her daughter started off. "There may be a few dries, but I've never met any socially," says Miss Fawn Lippincott.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO LABOR BY STATE G. O. P. OUTLINED

Emmerson Speaks Today at Williamson Co. Fair, Marion

Marion, Ill., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Contributions of the Republican party to labor were discussed here today by Louis L. Emmerson, Republican candidate for governor, in a Republican Day speech at the Williamson county fair.

He pledged his aid to miners of Illinois in securing "fair freight rates which will enable miners to compete on an equal basis with neighboring states."

"No state in the union has done so much for the protection of the miner as has Illinois," Mr. Emmerson said. "Its laws regulating the mining industry and protecting the lives of the men who work in the mines are models which other states have attempted to follow but which no other state has equalled."

"Practically all of these laws were written under the Republican administrations."

"One need but compare the conditions under which Illinois miners work with those prevailing in Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama to understand the difference between the attitude toward labor of Republican administrations and administrations controlled by the Democratic party."

"This is true of all industries. In the south, where the Democratic party has been in uninterrupted control for three-quarters of a century, low wages, almost unbearable working conditions, child labor and absence of proper protective measures prevail.

"In Illinois the workmen's compensation law, the child labor law, a woman's labor law, an effective factory inspection law, a free employment system and excellent protective measures applicable particularly to miners have improved the lot of workers. High wages and good working conditions are maintained because of the friendly attitude of the state government toward industry."

"Coming from the southern part of the state as I do and having been a neighbor of the miners in the great southern Illinois coal fields all my life, I understand their problems and sympathize with their need of steadier employment, and I want to help them."

"Coal mining is one of the principal industries of Illinois, and the prosperity of a considerable portion of the state has been seriously affected by conditions in recent years due to several causes, but mainly to the unfair differential which makes it impossible for the mines of Illinois to compete on an equal basis with those of neighboring states. I believe that these unfair freight rates should be corrected and I propose to insist upon the appointment of men on the Interstate Commerce commission who will be fair to Illinois mines."

"I am an ardent believer in the encouragement of home industries. During my term as secretary of state every pound of coal consumed in the state power plant has been produced in Illinois. Public institutions and private industries should burn Illinois coal because by so doing they are contributing to the prosperity of our own communities.

"This state produces more coal than any others, with the exception of Pennsylvania and West Virginia. It has facilities for mining much more if proper markets could be found for it. Honest freight rates and the encouragement of home consumption would do much toward strengthening this situation and toward providing steady work for nearly 100,000 miners, most of whom are now employed but part of the time."

ANNOUNCE AWARDS MADE IN EXHIBIT OGLE CALF CLUBS

Judging Done by Prof. Smith of Illinois State Varsity

The Boys' and Girls' Calf Club, conducted by the Farm Bureau, was an outstanding attraction at the Ogle County Fair.

No other exhibit on the grounds attracted as much attention and during the judging it was difficult to obtain room enough for the judge to work because of the eager crowd which pressed in on all sides.

Twenty eight animals were shown including a class of 20 yearling Herefords, a class of four yearling Angus and a class of four Angus and Short-horn calves under a year old.

The largest exhibit from a single community was that of the Polo Club having 17 Herefords. This club was sponsored by the Polo State Bank and was in charge of a committee appointed by the Bank. They will also exhibit at Polo, September 13 and 14, during the Fall Festival of the Polo Women's Club. The success of Polo Club demonstrates the possibilities of this project when it has the support of a local institution to back it.

The judging was done by Prof. W. H. Smith of the University of Illinois who took considerable time to observe all the points of merit of the individual animals. He explained to the crowd what qualities were necessary in a good beef calf and as he placed the animals in order of their relative merit he told the audience why he placed them as he did. This was the most instructive and most interesting part of the exhibit.

The awards were as follows:

ALL-CANADA TELEPHONE SERVICE ESTABLISHED

Winnipeg.—(AP)—An all-Canadian telephone service from Winnipeg to Montreal has been established via Fort Arthur and Fort William, a distance of 1,800 miles. Heretofore a connection between the two cities had to be made through links in the United States.

Rates will be lowered as a result of the opening of the all-Canadian line. Coast-to-coast communication is expected in the near future, the final stage being completion of the line across the Rockies for which the Canadian Pacific railroad's right of way will be largely used.

AUSTRALIANS ARE SLOW TO USE AIR TRANSPORT

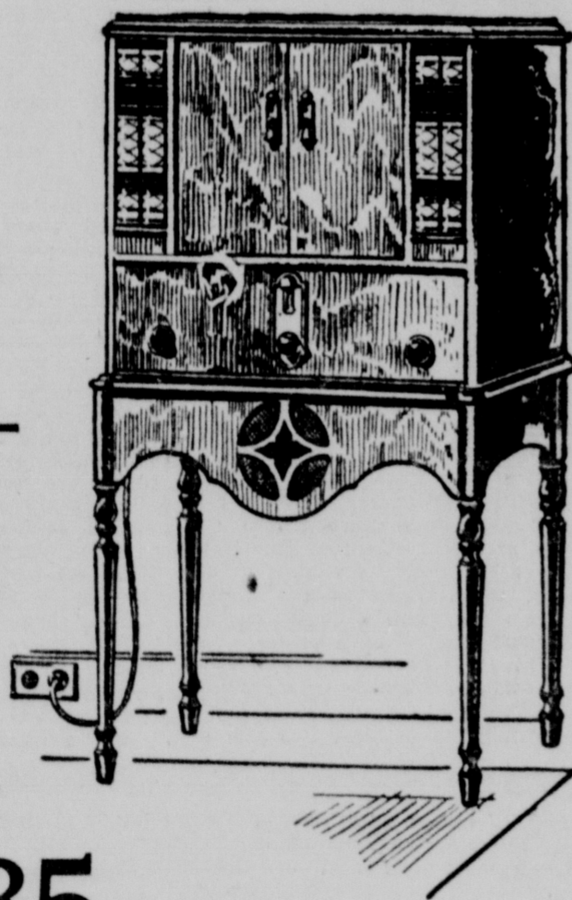

Sidney, Australia.—(AP)—The first modern air transport service in Australia will soon be inaugurated with a saloon monoplane seating 10 passengers and with sleeping accommodations for 5.

Airplane travel in the commonwealth has heretofore been managed by small companies using ordinary planes. There has been nothing to compare with the air liners of Europe.
